Broadway Landscape Plan Gets Service Area Approval

The DIMMER VIEW

by Max Goodwin

Anxious Reader

No. The Massage Parlor Bill was killed in Assembly early last week. We don't know why. Lawmakers often keep their innermost thoughts hidden when they vote.

But many lawmakers have deep feelings on honesty and fairness. It might be that they felt that if all opposite sex massage parlors were closed it might deprive some persons who need massage for conditions of health or for whatever benefits a "professional" massuesse can produce.

There was some negotiation in Sacramento on banning "topless" or bottomless" massuesses to perform in rub emporiums. Here again, it is only conjecture on our part.

It possibly was the empathy lawmakers feel for the working class. They may have reasoned that what these ladies do not have to put out for uniforms could be used to pay the utility and grocery bills at their own homes.

The Gold Seduction

Without regard for political position on world finance, a piece written by a Texas professor brings our nation's inflation problems into sharp focus.

The piece, about gold, is by Tom Rose, professor of Economics and director, Continuing Education Division, U. of Plano Texas. He starts off interestingly.

"People today have come to regard civil government as father-protector and supplier of their daily needs — a role which the Bible says belongs to God alone."

Then he warns that most civil governments in history have tended eventually to enslave their own citizens under the guise of "caring for them." Ancient examples, he says, are Greece, Egypt and Rome. And from the Mercantile Age are Spain, France and England. Modern examples, under the thrust of socialism are Italy (Mussolini), Germany (Hitler), Russia (Lenin et. al.), and England (Fabian Socialists). New to the scene is the United States under a unique brand of statewelfarism, he says.

Rulers, Rose asserts, vie with citizens as to who is to have power over spending the incomes that free citizens produce through their own creative economic activity. Shall it be the rulers? Or the people, themselves?

Rulers have answered this question by imposing taxes to the maximum that citizens will endure. Beyond that point they generally debauch the currency. In olden times kings melted down gold and silver coins and recast them with a mixture of baser metals to debauch it. The debased coins, by fiat of the ruler, had to be accepted by the citizens at their old face value. Inflation!

In the 13th century, Kublai Khan financed an extensive public works and public welfare program by replacing gold and silver with paper (mulberry bark) money. Economic chaos followed.

Thus, history shows rulers have tended to enslave those they are committed to protect by forcibly relieving citizens of their rightful freedom to spend their own money as they wish. When citizens will no longer bear heavier tax burdens, rulers turn to the insidious method of stealing purchasing power from citizens by inflating the money supply, Rose says.

Each new unit of money created by the ruler competes in open market on an equal par with the money already held by citizens. Thus, wealth is stealthily transferred from the private hands of citizens to the collective control of government bureaucrats. The faster new money is printed, the faster additional wealth is transferred. Private wealth thus becomes socialized. Citizens lose economic control over their own destinies.

Now look at the U.S. In 1932 the national debt was only $19.4 billion ($156 a person). The next year citizens were banned from converting money into gold by presidential order. By 1970 the debt was $384 billion ($1,875 a person). Last year the debt was over $430 billion and still growing. Each succeeding president, with a pliant Congress, saddles Americans with more debt.

A highly sophisticated method of debauching the currency is now used — government-sponsored central banks, in our case the Federal Reserve System. New money channeled through this system represents a new dollar of purchasing power syphoned away from the control of citizens. The result is that an ever-growing number of once-free-and-independent citizens are seduced into applying to the bureaucrats, who steal from them for their sustenance. The economic seduction becomes political slavery.

Rose's summary: Rulers don't want people to be free to convert government-decreed money into gold because it would provide a safety and economic haven for frugal wage earners against both economic and political enslavement. If ordinary citizens were allowed to exchange government money for gold it would be like a poker player who has the option of "cashing in his chips" and sitting on the sidelines when the stakes become too high for his comfort.

By cashing in, citizens could indirectly but surely "veto" grandiose spending schemes of lawmakers and bureaucrats.

But rulers — because they want to control, rather than be controlled — find it exceedingly distastful to allow this kind of economic power over their actions to reside in the hands of ordinary citizens.

Now, if you were not previously informed on the subject, you have just been introduced at the kindergarten level, to the frightening science of politico/economic control.

Supervisor OK, Tax Election Next Steps

SAN DIEGO (CNA)—Lemon Grove's County Service Area (CSA) No. 52, was extended from park purchase to include landscape maintenance Monday by the Local Agency Formation Commission.

Even if the Board of Supervisors approve LAFCO's determination, an election must be held to get taxpayers' approval to finance the enlarged CSA.

CSA 52 was set up to buy six acres of Lemon Grove park land at the S.E. corner of Mt. Vernon and Berry streets.

CSA 52, expanded, will cover the maintenance cost of four inter-related programs in the business district of Lemon Grove.

These are:

1. Care and upkeep of the railroad strip (plaza) Golden to North. 2. A similar strip from Golden to Palm. 3. Median strip landscape upkeep from Palm to North, and 4. Median strip landscape upkeep from King to Kempf st.

Landscaping will be installed and paid for by the County but care and feeding becomes the responsibility of the community, according to Ed Swanson, planner-coordinator of County CSAs.

The proposal will benefit the entire community — so that's who'll be asked to pay the bill. Some of the median strips are yet to be installed but gas-tax money has already been budgeted for the projects. Maintenance will consist of cleaning the four areas, care for the plants and repair on the sprinkler system as needed.

Senate Bill 90 limits taxing levels to the past fiscal year. So CSAs must get the approval of 50% of the voters within the CSA to make it operable.

The Berry-Mt. Vernon Park will cost $120,000 but $40,000 will be contributed from the federal Legacy of Parks program. Swanson said the election would be called if there is some indication that the community wants it.

He said the CSA as planned, including the park, might go as high as .227 per $100 of assessed valuation but it would drop sharply after the third year. A home valued at $20,200 would pay $11.46 in added taxes annually, he said. The CSA would harbor 26,000 people, it was estimated.

Meanwhile, another CSA has been approved for Alton Place in Lemon Grove. There, residents want a new road

CLOWNS DUE—Among the many entries in the third annual Casa de Oro Flag Day Parade will be clowns, some of them riding unicycles. Other major attractions will include eight bands, a dozen floats, and several military units. Sheriff John Duffy will be Parade Marshal.

Duffy Takes Over As Parade Marshal

Sheriff John Duffy will be the grand marshal of the Casa de Oro Flag Day Parade Saturday, it was announced this week. Congressman Lionel Van Deerlin, who was previously announced as grand marshal, was forced to bow out because of pressing legislative business.

The parade, scheduled to begin at 3 p.m., will get underway after a short fireworks show, which will include 500 red, white and blue balloons which will be released, and many miniature American flags which will drop by parachute.

The parade will proceed from the 7-11 store on Campo west to Spring Valley Junior High, where it will be disbanded. The parade this year, the third under the sponsorship of the Casa de Oro Business Association, is dedicated to the late Elisabeth Seymour Robinson, former reporter for this newspaper.

Before the parade begins, the Escondido Motorcycle Drill Team will put on a display of its specialty, then Duffy will lead the first unit in the hour-long parade.

During the course of the parade, units will pass in front of a broadcast booth manned by Bill Gordon, who will broadcast his radio show over KSDO 1130 on the dial, from the Casa de Oro plaza. Gordon will begin his broadcast at 1 p.m. and will end it shortly after the parade has completed its course.

Entries in the parade include eight bands, a dozen floats, clowns, antique automobiles, and military units.

Bands signed up for the affair include the Monte Vista and Mt. Miguel marching bands, the Home Federal Marching Band, Montezuma's Revenge, the Naval Training Center Band, the Golden Statesmen Drum and Bugle Corps, the City-County Marching Band, and the COMNAVAIRPAC Band from North Island Naval Air Station.

Military entries will include three units from Norton Air Force Base. They are the "Flying Rifles", a men's drill team, the "Little Generals", a women's drill team, and the Color Guard from the air base.

Floats expected include those of the Spring Valley Chamber of Commerce, with Debbie Holland, Miss Spring Valley, the Ox Bow Inn, the Liar's Inn, the Early Learning Center, Jimmie's Meat Market, the Spring Valley and Lemon Grove Lions Clubs, the Spring Valley Kiwanis, the Valle de Oro Planning Association, Concern for MIA's, the Military Wives for America, and two girl scout groups.

Included among clowns slated for the parade are the Lemonettes, a group of Lemon Grove Businessmen, who include among their members, Lemon Drip, Lemon Drop, and Mr. Lem N. Grove.

The sponsoring Casa de Oro Business Association will have an entry, a dune buggy driven by Juanita Mangels, of Vanice Realty, in which officers of the association will ride.

For equestrian enthusiasts, the Monte Vista Ranch Riders will show off their steeds, as will the Ramona 4-H Club Drill Team.

Following the parade, beginning at 5 p.m., a street dance will take place in the Casa de Oro Plaza, with Paul Murillo's Band, Montezuma's Revenge, and several other musical groups alternating on the bandstand.

Refreshments will be served at the street dance.

Included in the list of candidates are Suzanne Pickerd, Miss Lemon Grove, and Debra Holland, Miss Spring Valley. The Fairest of the Fair pageant will be held at 7 p.m. in the Scottish Rite Memorial Center in Mission Valley to select the queen of the exposition, scheduled June 22-July 4.

Youth Held After Second Arrest

SAN DIEGO (CNA)—A Spring Valley youth was put on two years' probation and fined $300 in Superior Court last week for having narcotics in his possession.

Paul Keith Moore, 19, a tool salesman of 3530 Helix dr., was arrested in January when police went to an apartment to report the recovery of a car and found Moore in possession of cocaine, marijuana and pills.

He was freed on bail after two days but was arrested again when he refused to testify against his father who is charged with theft of government property.

Moore is now in county jail on a federal contempt charge. The probation report indicates he will be held until he testifies or until the judge relents.

VdO Assn. Meets At Monte Vista June 13

The Valle de Oro Planning Association will meet June 13, at 7:30 p.m., in Room 1002, at Monte Vista High School. It will be the first meeting with the newly elected vice chairmen and secretary.

Chairman Roy Dieter said the meeting will be primarily a work program and discussion of association goals. He said he expects county planning advisors to be present with maps for discussion. The public is invited.

Voluntary Bicycle Registration Planned

A voluntary bicycle licensing program has been set up through the Lemon Grove and Spring Valley Fire Departments, the local Sheriff's station, and the California Highway Patrol's Accident Reduction Team.

Under the program, bike owners may register their machines at a local fire station for a 50-cent service fee and will receive an identification sticker.

Information, such as the name and address of the owner, the bike serial number, and the description of the bike will then be registered with the fire department and the Sheriff's department.

The program begins Monday. Registration times are from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m.

'Daubers' Plan Show

The Dilly Daubers "Hungry Artist" show will be held Friday through Sunday 3:30 p.m. to dark at the Pinnacle Peak restaurant in El Cajon. It's open to the public.

The regular monthly meeting of the group will be held Wednesday at 7 p.m. in the Community Room of Sears in El Cajon.

Luncheon Wednesday To Honor Retiring School Board Trustees

Two long-time residents of local school districts will be honored Wednesday at a community luncheon.

Bert Cosby, a trustee of the Lemon Grove School District and Palmer Svalstad, trustee of the Grossmont Union High School District, have each served 19 years on their respective boards.

The luncheon, sponsored by local service clubs, will be at the Bowlero in Lemon Grove.

The affair is open to the public but reservations must be made through Mrs. McDermott at 469-4134. Luncheon is $3 a person.

Svalstad, a contractor, was appointed to the governing board in 1954 to fill a vacancy. He was re-elected four times and in 1969 garnered the largest vote total in the history of the District despite there being 14 other candidates.

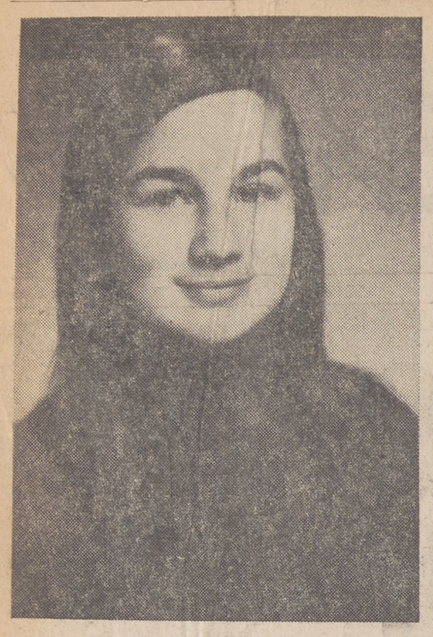
As Svalstad served, the Grossmont District grew from two schools to eight, with the ninth presently under construction. During the period enrollment grew from 4,500 to 20,000 and the budget grew from $2½ milltion to $30 millions.

Bert Cosby, a PacTelCo executive, was appointed to fill a vacancy on the Lemon Grove School Board the same year that Svalstad was appointed to the Grossmont Board. As was the case with Svalstad, Cosby was re-elected four times. He served as president of the board five times. He has maintained an excellent rapport with teachers, administrators and parents during his tour of duty.

The luncheon is sponsored by the Kiwanis and Lions clubs of Lemon Grove in that Cosby is a Kiwanian and Svalstad a Lion.

James V. Dorman, past president of the Lions club will be program chairman while Louis Poluzzi, president of the Kiwanis club will welcome visitors. Guests will include the wives of members. School board members past and present have been invited to attend.

During the program Dr. Robert Sutton, superintendent of the Lemon Grove School District will present awards to retirees. Max Goodwin, local newspaper editor will pay tribute to them. Dell Lake, president of the L.G. Chamber of Commerce will bring community greetings.



SCHOLARS—Patricia Kubanis, who will graduate next week from Helix High School, was named winner of the La Mesa American Legion Auxiliary LeRoy Bailey Scholarship, while Lnda Kossoff, a January graduate of Monte Vista High School, was named winner of the Auxiliary's Mary T. Blalock Scholarship. The scholarships are for $250. Not pictured is Rita Wagner, of Lemon Grove, who earned the runner up award of $100. She is a senior at Mount Miguel High School.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor,

I am writing to you regarding a very important matter.

We may be on the threshold of a major breakthrough in the fight against leukemia, the dread killer of both children and adults.

This year is an important and crucial year in finding the cause, cure and prevention of the nation's leading child killing disease — leukemia!

The San Diego County Chapter of the Leukemia Society of America has meaningful research grants already set up at Scripps Clinic and Salk Institute which must be continued, and a strong patient-aid program which is assisting many local citizens affected by leukemia.

Fund raising, costs are being kept down to an absolute minimum, enabling the society to have more funds available for maximum leukemia research and patient services.

Donations to the society are tax deductible. Checks may be made payable to the Leukemia Society of America, Inc., 4379 30th st., suite 7, San Diego, 92104.

Sincerely,
Lonard T. Bell
President, Board
Of Trustees,
San Diego Chapter

Dear Editor,

An open letter to Fred Morey, Chief Administrative Officer, San Diego County, and Dan C. Cherrier, Director of Planning, San Diego County:

Gentlemen:

I am president of the Spring Valley Chamber of Commerce and have talked this matter over with a number of directors. This letter, though, is sent as a private citizen, as the chamber has not had information or time to take a stand on the matter.

I believe that the county is mistaken in requesting local (untrained in planning) citizens to determine how their area should grow. Many local citizens don't want growth and don't understand community planning.

The chamber helped the Valle de Oro Planning Association get started. With chamber help, attendance rose from 35 persons at the first meeting to nearly 2,000 at the third meeting of the group over a year ago.

Now the meetings average 30 to 60 people, mostly Sierra Club members, ecologists, and those who want to keep Spring Valley rural. Practically none are expert planners.

I attended the May 9 meeting and was shocked to hear resolutions presented that would nearly stop all growth. One was "limit future growth to residential lots of one acre or more, except some at ½ acre". Another was "limit growth to 2% a year increase in population". A third sought to "leave present zoning as is on areas partially developed".

Land is expensive now days, and with streets and utilities, one acre lots in Spring Valley would cost $20,000 to $25,000. Such expensive lots would require homes of around $100,000. And who would provide maintenance of such large lots?

This area grew at a rate of 45.5% a year between 1950 and 1960. To restrict growth to 2% seems unfair and unreal. No local planning group should have the power to determine growth rate.

Present zoning in partially developed areas is improper. For instance, there is little

Hardison's Telespanish

By James Hardison

"Dije" is a variation of "decir" which means "I said." It is pronounced "DEE-heh." Idiomatically it can mean "I told." This is demonstrated in the phrases "Dije la verdad." (I told the truth.) and "No dije nada." (I didn't say anything.). "Dije" may be used with the pronoun "yo"(I). This is seen in the expressions "Yo dije eso." (I said that.) and "Yo dije todo." (I told everything.). Also, "Yo dije muchas cosas." (I said many things.).

"Dijiste," pronounced "dee-HEES-teh" is the form used when talking to close friends and loved ones. Thus we may say "dijiste algo importante." (You said something important.) and 'No se que dijiste." (I don't know what you said.). "Tu dijiste todo." (You said everything.) and "No entiendo lo que dijiste." (I don't understand what you said.).

"Dijo" is phonetically pronounced "DEE-hoh" and is the way to say "said." It may be used with the pronouns "el" (he), "ella" (she) or "usted" (you). This is seen in the phrases "El me dijo lo que paso." (He told me what happened.) and "Ella no dijo nada de eso." (She didn't say anything about that.).

"Dijimos" is the way to say "we said." Words ending in "mos" suggest that the subject in English is "we." Some examples of this are demonstrated in the phrases "Dijimos las cosas necesarias." We said the necessary things. (We said the necessary things.) and "Ayer dijimos todo eso." (We said all of that yesterday.).

"Dijeron means "they said" and "you (plural) said." This is seen in phrases like "Ellos dijeron eso." (They said that.) and "No nos dijeron nada en salir." (They didn't say anything as they left.).

Enjoy these phrases. The phonetic guide and record (276-2762) will help.

Say "Yo no dije nada." (yoh noh (DEE-heh nah-thah) for "I didn't say anything."

Say "Ella dijo muchas cosas." (EH-yah DEE-hoh MOO-chas KAH-sahs) for "She said many things."

Say "El dijo todo." (EHL DEE-hoh TOH-thoh) for "He told everything."

Say "Que dijo usted?" (kah DEE - hoh TOH - thoh) for "What did you say?"

Say "dijimos la verdad." (dee - HEE - mohs lah vehr-THAD) for "We told the truth."

Say "No dijeron mucho." (noh dee-HEHR-rohn MOO-choh) for "They didn't say much."

land under R-2 and R-3 zone which is not now developed. There is little land zoned for industry. There are practically no parks in the area. There should be a more orderly and intelligent zone plan.

Planning should be made to provide adequate parks, open space, commercial, industrial, apartment, and home areas Propertly planned areas can be beautiful. We should not put our area in a straight jacket.

Several specialized classes have been scheduled for the five-week summer session at Kempton Street Elementary School in Spring Valley.

Children in grades one, two, and three will attend "Through Children's Eyes — A Look Around the World", taught by Carol Evans and Temme Weinberg. The class is an imaginary trip around the world, studying customs, games, dances, music, stories, art and cultures. Reading language and math skills will be developed as children prepare reports and research.

Students in grades three, four, five and six may select "A Journey to Outer Space" taught by Laurie Pfab, a specialist in perception, self-concept, and learning disabilities. The class will incude a giant papier mache rocket, constructed by the chidren, who will make imaginary space trips.

Included in learning exercises, in addition to fact-finding about planets and space travel, will be physical fitness units for "astronauts" and budgetary work for planning voyages. Other activities will include preparing "space meals", scientific experiments, and a field trip to the aerospace museum in San Diego.

Pupils in grades four, five and six, may choose from two other classes, "From Doodle Drawing to Dramatics" taught by Deva Claridge and "Indians—the First Americans" taught by Roy Allen.

Miss Claridge's class will work toward improving self-concept, creative and academic skills through experiences in cartooning, weaving, carving, macrame, stitchery and other handicrafts. Pupils will also write their own skits, puppet shows, and plays.

Allen's class will discover, through reading, writing, films, and arts and crafts, how the American Indians lived before the white man came to this country. The students will construct an Indian village, eat Indian foods, make Indian tools, and construct handicrafts similar to those of different tribes.

Summer session classes begin June 25 and will continue through July 27, from 8 a.m. to 12:10 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Your mother probably never told you to go into the savings and loan business.

It's not the easiest business in the world. And doing it right is just plain hard work.

Doing it right means knowing most of your customers on sight. Getting rid of outdated ways of doing business and finding new ways of looking at yourself. Knowing when to bend your own rules just a bit to do the right thing for a customer. Handling every loan and new account transaction as if your whole business future depended on it. (Which it does, in a way.)

And if you did all that, and just a little bit more, you'd have yourself one good savings and loan.

One like ours.

Jackson Wins Twice; Tied For League Lead

Jackson Supply won a pair of games, while co-league leaders Berg Electric and Moose Lodge split their games last week to create a three-way tie for first place in the Spring Valley Little League.

Jackson, tied for third place last week with One Hour Martinizing, beat that team 10-3 Tuesday, and 4-2 Saturday to move into a tie with Berg and Moose Lodge.

The Tuesday game saw Jackson trailing by a run in the third inning, but a four-run rally in that frame and four more runs in the fourth added up to victory. On Saturday, Jackson scored four times in the first inning with the aid of a three-run homer by Mike Vitale, then held off a last inning rally to gain the win.

Moose Lodge lost its first game of the week despite a two-hitter by losing pitcher Ralph Amargo, as Letter Carriers tallied on walks and errors to get a 5-2 decision. Winning pitcher Stan Salazar twirled a three-hitter and struck out ten Moose.

On Saturday, the Moose came back with big bats to collect a 9-4 victory, as Letter Carriers could get things going only in the third inning, when they scored all their runs.

Luigi's Restaurant scored five times in the bottom of the fifth inning to surprise Berg Electric, 7-6, Friday, but Berg bounced back Saturday with a six-run outburst in the third inning to win, 11-4.

In the only other major division action, Kiwanis beat Dial Finance twice to move into fourth place. Kiwanis trumped Dial, 8-4 on Thursday, with the aid of a home run by John Fox. On Saturday, Kiwanis broke a 4-4 tie in the last inning as Steve Capitano swiped two bases to set up the winning run.

In the minor league, co-leaders Worthy Plumbing and Polar Frozen Foods each split two games to remain tied.

Polar lost Tuesday, 6-4 to Lomita Bowl, as a last inning rally fell short.

Worthy Plumbing plastered A/C Appliance the following day, 16-4, to take a one-game lead over Polar.

On Saturday, However, Polar bats boomed in a 23-2 victory over Lomita, while A/C Appliance won, 13-8, putting Worthy and Polar tied again for first.

In other minor division games, Maple Cottage split with the Boosters, winning 8-3 and losing 9-4, while Zumwalt's swept a pair from Well's Upholstery, 13-5 and 12-1.

Hornets Win Pair; Lead Pony League

The Green Hornets, leading the Sky-Grove Pony League with a perfect 4-0 record, won twice last week to keep a firm hold on first place, while second place Lido's kept pace with two wins.

The Hornets last week stung A-Rooter twice, 11-5 and 7-3, getting outstanding performances from John Kovacs, who hit a home run, and pitcher Ken Howe, who struck out 11 Rooters.

Lido's, who won the first-half title and will face the second-half winner in a post-season playoff, tripped winless Murphy Plumbing, 10-0 on a one-hitter by John Young, and 10-7 in a wild game.

Young and Jim Schroeder hit round trippers for the winners in the first game. In the second game, Lido's scored four runs in the top of the seventh inning to lead 10-6. Murphy batter Bruce Frank opened the bottom of the inning with a homer off Dave Terrell before John Young came in to put out the fire, as Lido's took the 10-7 decision.

In the only other league games, Ned's Outboard and LG Lions Club split a pair, as the Lions took the opener, 6-4, and Ned's bounced back in the nightcap, 2-0. In the first game, Kip Hayes hit a roundtripper for the losers, as did Mike Neagle for the winners. In the second game, Earl Ritchey twirled a 2-hit shutout and fanned 17 Lions.

In inter-league action, Lido's trumped Grossmont's McMullen, 4-1, Grossmont's Pizza Palace zapped the Lions, 15-1, Grossmont's Griffins topped Ned's 6-4, and Grossmont's PDCA edged Murphy, 4-3, in a see-saw affair.

In the Lido's-McMullen game, Mike DiMaggio belted a 3-run homer to break up a tie game and win it for Lido's. In the Lions-Pizza Palace game, Mike Neagle homered to supply the only run for the Lions.

'Like Boy Named Sue'

Gulls Acquire Lynn Margarit

The San Diego Gulls have acquired the rights to 27-year-old Lynn Margarit, who Gulls general manager Max McNab says "plays like a boy named Sue."

On the Muskegon Mohawks team in the International League last year he scored 58 points on 10 goals and 48 assists. He is 5-11, 195 pounds.

Margarit led his league twice in penalties, with a high of 349 minutes. His career low is 192 minutes.

"I've been watching his progress and play for a couple of years but he has always been protected, first by Montreal and most recently by the New York Rangers."

"I was advised by one IHL coach he plays like Connie Madigan. He gets a lot of points and a lot of penalty minutes. This could be the rough, tough defenseman we've been looking for," said McNab.

Margarit began his career in 1967-68 with Muskegon and he promptly led the league with 349 penalty minutes. The following season with the Mohawks he again led the IHL with 293 minutes in penalties. 1969-79 saw Lynn split the season with New Haven and Salem of the EHL before returning to Muskegon where he has played the last three seasons. Last year his 58 points was a career high.

HEAVYWEIGHT CHAMP — Jack O'Halloran, also known as the La Jolla Lip, will stake his California Heavyweight Championship belt on the line Friday night when he battles Howard "Kayo" Smith, of Los Angeles. The 12-round bout is scheduled for the "new" San Diego Coliseum.

O'Halloran to 'Star' In Coliseum Reopening

Boxing fans will be pleased with the appearance of the "new" Coliseum when they pay homage Friday night to that "greatest of all" state boxing champions, Irish Jack O'Halloran who is frequently referred to as the La Jolla Lip.

That sobriquet is a misnomer only because he is also from Boston, Philadelphia, San Diego and Miami Beach.

But champ he is and he's laying his belt on the line Friday when he takes on a serious battler — Howard "Kayo" Smith, of Los Angeles for 12 rounds or less. Smith brings a record of 13-1 to match up with O'Halloran's 35-16-2.

O'Halloran appears slimmer than when he fought last in San Diego. At that fight, also in the Coliseum, he knocked out Rahaman Ali, Muhammad's brother, in the eighth round of a scheduled 10-rounder. He weighed 244 but he looked 275. During a visit with sportswriters Tuesday he appeared to be somewhere between 244-275.

Cheering Section

It ought to be said in O'Halloran's favor that he is a nice guy. He lacks the instinct of a killer which is probably the reason that his record isn't better. There are some who think O'Halloran's boxing prowess leaves much to be desired but there are few who do not like him. He is usually attended at his fights by an entire section who come to cheer one person—Jack.

The remainder of the card is comprised of lightweights. There's a four rounder between Armando Cardova of Los Angeles and Ray Cabrera of San Ysidro; a six rounder between Bobby Hernandez of National City and Moses Carbin of Long Beach, and an eight rounder between Tony Bellard of El Cajon and Julio Lopez of San Diego.

The Coliseum, at 15th and E streets, has been cleaned up. It is being operated by Mickey Davies, a well-known and highly respected box fight promoter. He will bring fights on a twice-monthly schedule.

On Tuesday nights, Pinkie George, an old-time wrestling promoter, will present wrestling at the facility. These are scheduled on a weekly basis.

Tickets to Friday's fight are $3.00 general admission; $6.00 reserved seats, and $7.50 ringside. The shows start at 8:30 p.m.

Reservations may be made at the Coliseum via 232-8362.

Sports Stars Night To Aid Track Team

"Meet the San Diego Sports Stars" night will be held June 19 after the Padre-Astro game for fans who purchase tickets for the San Diego youth track team's European tour.

Tickets for the game are priced at $10, tax deductible. with all proceeds going toward the track club's fund for its 44-day tour of Russia, Sweden and Finland this summer.

After the game, all fans will be able to meet and chat with members of the Padres, Chargers, Gulls and Cues at the Sportsmen's Club at the Stadium, where a free buffet snack will be served.

Players from the pro sports teams will be available for autographs and pictures. The track team, representing all of San Diego County, is about $28,000 shy of its goal to finance the first-ever private club trip abroad.

The team must raise about $40,000. Tickets can be ordered by calling Jim Cervaney (479-7111, 442-2461) or Dick Coxe (279-2300, 276-0030). Tickets can also be purchased at Mesa and Grossmont College and at Madison, El Capitan, Vista and San Dieguito High schools.

More than 75 county athletes are hoping to make the 38-member team.

Local Team Wants Swimmers Stroke-Correction Help Offered

Competition swim assignments are available on the Carman Ranch club swim team, it was announced this week by coach Lisa Goodwin.

She said the meet season starts this month and openings exist for swimmers in all age groups and in all strokes. The team has a respectable record of wins during the past seasons.

Boys and girls, 4 to 18, who are anxious to win and are willing to work out can qualify, she said.

Membership in Carman Ranch Club is not required to become a team member.

Workouts are held 6-8 a.m. and 4:30-p p.m. Mondays through Fridays and 8-10 a.m. on Saturdays.

Swim meets are held throughout San Diego County on most weekends during the summer months.

Beginners can profit most, Miss Goodwin said, in the stroke-correction instruction period during the evening workout which is designed to prevent bad, speed-swim habits from developing.

Half-year swim-team membership is $25. Tryouts are held each workout period. For specific information call Miss Goodwin at 466-1653 — preferably in the evening.

The team is sponsored by the Carman Ranch Swimming Association.

Pat McIntyre Takes Second In Main Event

Spring Valley driver Pat McIntyre, in a bid to repeat as El Cajon Stock Car Racing Association champion, inched closer to first place in the point standings last Saturday night at Cajon Speedway by taking second place in the 30-lap main event.

In a wild race, McIntyre, who started in the 14th position, didn't have enough laps to catch eventual winner Sonny Tomlinson, who made his way to the front on the 13th lap.

The race opened with eager leadfoots Carl Simon and Tex Kimbrell battling for the lead on the first lap. A spinout forced both drivers, as well as Lemon Grove pilot Jim Hitt, into the wall.

Kimbrell and Hitt mixed it up again on the re-start, and another re-start saw Cactus Henyan, Al McBride and Bill Buttts bend fenders in the south turn before the race finally was off and running.

Before long, Tomlinson took the lead and drew away to a five-car-length advantage before McIntyre broke out of the pack and took up the chase late in the race. Before he could overtake the leader, however, the checkered flag came out, ending the evening.

Hitt and McIntyre will be back this Saturday, as will George Behlman, another Lemon Grove driver who last week finished first in the fast six-lap heat race. Qualifying is at 6:30 p.m., first race gets underway ta 8 p.m.

All-Star Miszuk Signs Gulls 3-Year Contract

Veteran defenseman John Miszuk has signed a three year contract to play hockey for the San Diego Gulls. Named to the Western Hockey League first team all-star squad last season, Miszuk will begin his fourth year in a Gull uniform in 1973-74.

A 12-year performer in the professional ranks, Miszuk set a San Diego one year team defenseman record with 38 assists last season. He was voted the Sandy Award for his hustle, spirit and determination to go along with his first team WHL all-star status.

"He was the guy on the ice 30-35 minutes per game in a year when we had our best defensive record ever," siad Gull general manager Max McNab.

"As a team we're going to be younger next year and John will be one of the steadying influences on the club."

"By signing a three year contract, John has shown that San Diego is where he wants to play," said McNab.

Miszuk and his wife bought a home in San Diego and will live in Southern California year round. They are the parents of four children, two boys and two girls.

A native of Naliboski, Poland, the 32-year-old Miszuk began his pro career in 1961-62 with the Edmonton Flyers of the WHL. John has played with four National League teams, including Philadelphia, Detroit, Chicago and Minnesota.

Coach Jack Evans, himself a defenseman for 24 years, welcomes the 6-2, 200 pound Miszuk back to the Gull line-up for the fourth consecutive season.

"John has great stamina and it's reassuring to look down the bench and see him ready every time you look," commented Evans.

"John has experience, hockey knowledge and ability. You can break in a rookie with him and be confident things will work out. An example is the way he helped Murray Kennett."

Kennett, the 1972-73 Gull Rookie of the Year, played alongside of Miszuk most of the season.

Classic Races Readied

DEL MAR—A reminder that elegibility payments for Del Mar's famed 2-year-old classics —the Futurity and Debutante —are due by June 15 was sounded today by Donald B. Smith, executive vice president and general manager of the seaside course. Del Mar's 34th summer season opens July 25.

Payments of $100 to remain eligible for 912 nominees to the 26th Futurity and 862 fillies to the 23rd Debutante are expected to materially increase the gross purse for both events.

Last September, Mr. and Mrs. Quinn Martin's Groshawk earned $67,135 from a record gross of $112,785 in winning the Futurity—7½ furlongs on the turf—in a record 1-28 3/5.

Festival Revels Featured Before Old Globe Plays

Summer evening visitors to Balboa Park will be entertained by the Festival Revels at the Old Globe Theatre. Performing at 8 p.m. prior to the San Diego National Shakespeare Festival, the fifteen minute presentation of music and dance will be staged on the greensward.

Nestled between the Spanish Renaissance tower above the Museum of Man and the contemporary sculpture court of the Fine Arts Gallery, the Old Globe Theatre is a functioning replica of Shakespeare's original Globe Playhouse in London where many of Shakespeare's plays were originally presented.

The Festival Revels create a country fair mood of the 16th century spirit prior to the major festival productions. A professional acting company appears on the Old Globe Theatre stage in a repertory of summer productions which includes "The Merchant of Venice," "Two Gentlement of Verona" and "King Lear" through September 16.

A variety of entertainment will be featured during the Festival Revels. More than 100 young people will appear in colorful costumes of the Elizabethian period. Singers and musicians will present the music of the 16th century while dancers will perform country dances, the forerunner of American square dances. Also on the greensward will be tumblers, actors, jugglers, harlequins, a fire-eater and a bagpipe player.

Katie Sullivan is the director of the Festival Revels and creator of the popular free activity. A tradition of the San Diego National Shakespeare Festival, English country dances were first presented at the Old Globe Theatre in 1935 when the theatre was first constructed for the California Pacific International Exposition.

Hadzima Has Highest GPA

To say that the contest for highest grade-point average by a graduating senior in the University of Texas School of Architecture was close would be an understatement.

The difference between the top two was 0.01.

Alfred John Hadzima, of 3639 South Bonita, Spring Valley, completed his studies with a grade-point average of 3.61 out of a possible 4.0.

His nearest competitor was Mrs. Maria-Magdalena Triguis de Aquino of Nebraska. Her grade-point average was 3.60.

When the American Institute of Architects School Medal Awards were given during the School's commencement convocation May 26, however, the order of finish was reversed.

Mrs. Aquino received the first award in the AIA School Medal competition, which is given for scholarship and professional promise. Hadzima received the second award.

Last In Series On Tennessee Williams Tuesday at College

The film series devoted to the "Life and Times of Tennessee Williams" will be concluded when "Suddenly Last Summer" is screened at 8 p.m., Tuesday, in the Fine Arts Recital Hall at Grossmont College. Presented by the college's Office of Community Services, the series has explored the works of one of the United State's greatest playwrights.

"Suddenly Last Summer" features an all-star cast that includes Elizabeth Taylor, includes Elizabeth Taylor, Katherine Hepburn, Montgomery Clift and Mercedes McCambridge. The screen play by Gore Vidal and Tennessee Williams, is from Williams' one-act play "The Garden District."

Filmed in Great Britain, "Suddenly Last Summer" is a hair-raising tale in which Elizabeth Taylor is placed in a private mental hospital for treatment after witnessing the horrible death of her favorite cousin. Her aunt, portrayed by Katherine Hepburn, wants her transferred to a state hospital where she will make a one-million dollar endowment if the doctors will perform a lobotomy to quiet her. After an injection of sodium pentothal, the truth serum, Miss Taylor tells of the events leading up to her cousin's death "last summer." The truth is too much for Katherine Hepburn, being the direct cause of her son's death, she is unable to face the reality of her guilt and loses her reason.

"Suddenly Last Summer" was selected as "One of the Ten Best Pictures of the Year" by the National Board of Review. Both Elizabeth Taylor and Katherine Hepburn received Academy Award Nominations for Best Actress for their roles in this film. Elizabeth Taylor also received the New York Film Critics nomination for Best Actress while Gore Vidal and Tennessee Williams received the nomination for Best Screen Play.

COST PINCH—Civil engineer Will Dakan displays some of the items involved in spiralling costs for the County Engineer's Department. His work gloves have risen 47 per cent, the survey stake he is holding has gone up 50 per cent, and his hard hat has increased 18 per cent during the past year. Although most county workmen must furnish their own equipment, the same as in private industry, the county still buys large quantities of items for honor camp residents who do road landscaping and brush clearing for fuel breaks in the back country.

County Vet Warns Of Rabies Case

The dreaded and often fatal rabies has once again roised its ugly head in San Diego County.

Dr. Hubert Johnstone, County Veterinarian, said that in the first confirmed case of rabies since September, 1971, the Lakeside area is once again in the focal point. In 17 cases of rabies since 1969, seven have been in that east county region, although the entire county has been represented in past cases.

In this latest incident, Duncan Clark, a park ranger at El Monte County Park, found a live bat acting strangely. He called Animal Regulation Officer Russell Williams to the scene. Williams captured the bat and took it to the County Veterinarian's laboratory for examination where it was determined rabid.

"Luckily in this case," Dr. Johnstone said. "the bat was handled only by professionals."

Had a child or unsuspecting adult tried to pick up the bat, the incident could have become critical, he said. Although rabid bats pose no danger to people through attack, if handled they might bite in self defense. Also domestic animals might toy with a sick bat and become infected.

Controversial 'Lenny' Opens at Off Broadway

Off Broadway Producers Don Wortman and Tom Hartzog have created another first for San Diego theatre goers by bringing "Lenny" to their theatre. Starring Sandy Baron, it is the re-creation of the New York and Los Angeles production, which also starred Baron.

"Lenny" did previews earlier this week with the official opening tonight. It has only been scheduled for a three three week limited run. A review of this production will be published in the next issue of this newspaper.

Tom O'Horgan, best known for his direction of "Hair" and "Jesus Christ Super Star", supervised the production at the Off Broadway, and Dick Scanga, of the Broadway presentation, work under his supervision in directing the show.

All of the scenery and costumes are from the original New York production.

"Lenny" is hailed by the New York critics "as one of the best shows of that season". However, the producers went to great pains to warn San Diegans that it is a controversial play, and has content, stage action and language that some will find offensive. They restricted audiences to persons over 17 years of age.

The San Diego presentation is only the third production, but plans are in motion for a national touring company. Wortman and Hartzog said they are considering bringing "Lenny" back to New York and Chicago, as well as other major U.S. cities.

Taylors Named To Manage Pal's Cafe-Restaurant

Bob Taylor, a veteran food and drink executive, has been named manager of Pal's Cafe at Imperial and Lester in Lemon Grove.

Taylor, who is well known as a musician throughout the southwest including Phoenix and Scottsdale was associated with Duane Eddy, the Patty Page show, Wayne Newton as a drummer and band leader.

BOB AND GERI TAYLOR

He also played in various Las Vegas show places. Taylor has also been a record producer and music publisher. He replaces Ralph Fetters who retired from Pal's to "go fishing."

Taylor's wife, Geri, will work with him. She has been in the food-drink business almost as long as her husband. She is said to be the first woman bartender to start in the trade after the law was changed about two years ago. Her job as "bartendress" was at Ox Bow in Casa de Oro.

One of the first changes made by Taylor was extending Pal's lunch hour until 5 p.m. Food may be ordered off the dinner menu from then on. The restaurant has long been noted for its steak—specially the filet mignon.

The cafe opens daily at 6 a.m. and new lights. They are using a CSA instead of a 1911 Act because it is faster and cheaper. Since the benefit would accrue only to that neighborhood, only that neighborhood votes and if successful, only that neighborhood is taxed. The improvements would cost the residents about $3.19 of assessed valuation by the second year, then it will taper off.

The Lemon Grove Park at Washington - Alton is being kept up by the County. But it is safe to assume that it, too, will eventually become a tooth in the CSA cog.

Series Tickets Sold

Over three thousand "Symphony on the Green" concert series tickets have been reserved during the first two weeks of season ticket campaign.

The outdoor pop concert series, sponsored by the San Diego Symphony Association and Rancho Bernardo, will feature three of America's most popular conductors.

Home Federal Country.

Why is it better than money in the bank?

Ask a friend.

A friend of yours at any Home Federal office can quickly show you how much interest you're losing on your savings account at any bank. We're surprised at how many people don't know this. Or perhaps feel it's not that important. We'd like the opportunity to show you in a friendly way just how much faster your savings can grow in a higher-earning Home Federal account.

You have six hundred friends at Home Federal. We hope you'll "ask a friend" soon at your neighborhood Home Federal office.

Second Best Is Much More Than Good

By SUSY SMITH

We're NOT No. 1 ... and we don't want to be.

We're No. 2 and we couldn't be happier with our "second-rate" status.

We're a first class community with top-notch people and the finest assets of any area in California, even if we are only second in population to Los Angeles.

With a total of more than 1.4 million, San Diego County boasts more people than 15 of the states in the nation. The city of San Diego, numbering almost 725,000 inhabitants, is the second largest city in the West and the 14th largest in the United States.

We're Not THAT Big

When we achieved our rank as California's second largest county a few years back (surpassing San Francisco, as we did), there were those who probably groaned and compared us to the behemoth City of the Angels.

But if they predicted our emulation of Los Angeles, they were wrong, Wrong, WRONG.

San Diego may be a legitimate big city now but it still behaves like a friendly town. From its warm-hearted populace to its sun-blessed climate, San Diego has only been enhanced by its grownup status.

DAYS OF OLD — The harbor breezes sweep through the rigging of the Star of India, a venerable old lady of the sea. The iron-hulled vessel is open for public viewing each day and will soon have a companion when San Diegans anchor an antique San Francisco ferryboat at the Embarcadero.

And the best way to verify our claim to unlimited hospitality and superior assets is to see our community as we San Diegans do. Explore it. Get to know it. Let it show you how gracious it can be.

Plan a morning or afternoon motoring trip and traverse our county from the sea to the mountains for a look at San Diego life.

Start in downtown San Diego, the heart of our community and foundation for our broad business structure. High-rise edifices of varying architecture mingle with venerable older office buildings and stores to stimulate the pulse of our city.

Also housed downtown are the city administrative facilities where the future is plotted by our competent and energetic leaders, headed by Mayor Pete Wilson. Lawyers, doctors, merchants, bankers, financiers and community builders of all sorts gravitate to Centre City.

IMPRESSIVE SETTING — One of the city's most panoramic views is offered from high atop Point Loma where the eye may span all of busy San Diego Bay and the downtown shoreline. Towering business offices have sprung up along the bayfront to give renewed vitality to the skyline.

Horton Plaza, at Broadway and Third Ave., is set in the center of the business area and offers a mini-park where visitors gather helpful information, where downtowners gather, where pigeons soar and dive.

San Diego Civic Theatre and Community Concourse are also located downtown for easy access to entertainment and cultural events.

Foreign seamen and U.S. Navy personnel infiltrate our downtown area as the business district is located along San Diego Bay where sea trade is conducted on an international basis.

The Call Of The Sea

A stroll along the Embarcadero, as San Diegans call their bayside docks, yields a vivid impression of San Diego's activity and sea-spiced lifestyle. Fishermen who cruise the Pacific Ocean in search of prize fish return each season to unload their catch at the wharf and sort their nets, a process of unending intricacy which holds the attention of many a passerby.

The Star of India, tied up at the downtown docks, provides a nostalgic look at historic seafaring days. Open to the public as a maritime museum, the old lady of the sea enriches the wharfside atmosphere and provides an ideal spot from which you can view the active pace of harbor traffic.

Launched at the Isle of Man in 1863, the iron-hulled vessel has sailed around the world 21 times and has come to rest here, due to the efforts of dedicated San Diegans who couldn't bear to let her go to the scrap heap.

Plans are currently being formulated to give the Star a companion in the form of a historic San Francisco ferryboat which will also be berthed at the Embarcadero.

The Broadway Pier, once overburdened by huge shipping warehouses, was recently rebuilt to offer the downtown visitor a park-like setting from which to inspect our port's naval business. Landscaped garden pockets, benches and parking areas stretch the length of the pier which juts into San Diego Bay to facilitate waterborne craft in their business.

Access to Interstate Hwy. 5 is a simple matter from downtown and a trip to the southern portion of San Diego County is a must on your traveling agenda.

Our Proud Bridge

Begin with a drive over the towering blue San Diego-Coronado Bay Bridge which itself is an unmatched spot to find a sweeping view of the bay. To the south, the water and shoreline are filled to capacity with ships and shipyards which carry out the nautical side of local commerce. Northward, harbor channels reach to the tip of Coronado Island and along the shore of Point Loma, a course which leads to the open sea.

Coronado is not really an island but a landfill which is connected to the mainland along its southernmost stretch, the Silver Strand. Here you will find a community rich with friendly people and historic scenery. Huge old homes fronted with green lawns and gardens are complemented by small cottages and newer houses.

Navy personnel, active and retired, as well as longtime residents mingle in community life to create a hospitable atmosphere. Palm-lined streets are dotted with small shops and restaurants.

A large park, along Orange Ave., the main street, lures picnickers, strollers, youngsters and visitors to its shady lawns. Bicycles abound along city thoroughfares and many people walk to work or downtown instead of using their automobiles.

One of the most picturesque sites to be found in Coronado, as well as one of the most historic, is the popular Hotel del Coronado, which has seen its beaches populated with many generations of Californians and its elegant ballrooms filled with the world's nobility.

Enough For San Diego

The grand old hotel, white framed and topped with rich red roofs and curious cupolas, still entertains international dignitaries and serves the entire community as dining spot, vacation getaway and party headquarters.

It adorns the oceanfront which introduces you to the Silver Strand, a sandy ribbon of shoreline that connects Coronado to the rest of the county at Imperial Beach. The Navy uses a portion of the Strand for amphibious training operations; the citizenry uses it for a public beach; and developers are building high-rise apartments and harbor-front homes on it.

Mexico is just a short distance south of Imperial Beach via Interstate 5 and worth a visit if your time permits. Free port shopping and entertainment with an international flavor makes your stop in Tijuana a unique experience. The proximity of our Latin neighbor also reminds us of our Spanish-Mexican heritage and gives our city a charm sometimes influenced by south-of-the-border customs.

But now head north on your journey and you can visit Chula Vista and National City before you steer toward our inland adventures. Chula Vista is the county's second largest city and National City is home for varied U.S. Navy facilities and operations.

Head For The Hills

By taking Wabash Blvd. off Interstate 5 to Hwy. 94, you'll bear to the eastern segment of San Diego County which eventually reaches the desert and the fertile Imperial Valley. The communities of Lemon Grove, Spring Valley and La Mesa are accessible from the freeway route which passes through sprawling El Cajon.

This east county community is the hub of valley life and is one of San Diego's fastest growing cities. Usually basked in sun when beach areas are foggy, the valley center is rich in recreational variety and serves as a focal point for agriculture-related businesses.

A 25-mile drive east from El Cajon is almost completely freeway and wanders easily to higher mountain reaches of San Diego County. Huge rocky slopes interspersed with chaparral and low trees bank each side of the divided highway which narrows into a winding pass leading to Descanso. Here you are invited to take State Hwy. 79 to Julian.

From the main road, Hwy. 79 drops into a valley of expansive meadows which are a-bloom with wildflowers each spring. A twisting trail takes the adventurer past rainbow-like stretches of pastures and fields where horses are often seen grazing and playing.

Oak tree shadows form jigsaw puzzle designs across the road as sunlight passes through the branches along the way. Squirrels dart mischievously across the pavement and leap up the rugged tree trunks when they hear your car approach.

You then enter Cuyamaca Rancho State Park which is carefully patrolled and maintained by park rangers. Camping and picnicking areas are designated throughout the area and the public is graciously invited to enjoy the beauty of this nature pocket.

Children love rolling through the grassy fields near the picnic areas and foliage of every variety offers a study in botany for the visitor. The birds chatter at you and envy your picnic lunch while the breezes are cooling through the tree-shrouded landscape.

Though much of the 20-mile tour to Julian leads through dense shrubs and forest, the road eventually opens into hills which skirt Lake Cuyamaca, where fishermen while away many a spring and summer day. Low shrubs and grass lead down to the bank of the ripple-laced lake and present a peaceful country setting not to be missed on your tour of our county.

The Livin' Is Easy

Julian, too, is a languid locale surrounded by local fruit farms and dominated by crisp smog-free air. Inhabitants of the old mining settlement are fiercely loyal to their small town but are equally eager to show off their community wealth.

Each fall, the first harvest inspires the traditional apple festival when roadside stands open to sell juicy apples, rich

From The Mayor

GREETINGS!

Let this be a personal invitation to you to enjoy the beauty and fun of California's first and finest city.

San Diego affords her citizens and guests a rich bounty of natural and manmade attractions: our world-famous San Diego Zoo, the 5,000-acre Mission Bay Park aquatic wonderland, the Wild Animal Park at San Pasqual, 70 miles of beaches and countless recreational opportunities, including golf courses, public tennis courts and bicycle paths.

This copy of IMAGE can be your guide to an exciting city that is determined to preserve its beauty, old and new. And a city whose citizens are eager to enjoy and share its riches.

I think you will see why we are proud of our city and witness the many ways our city reflects that pride.

Warmest personal regards,
PETE WILSON
Mayor of San Diego

avocados, berries, pears, nuts and honey produced by local farmers.

Late summer is also Julian's time to welcome visitors to its unusual Weed Show and Art Mart where creative arrangements of wood, stone and local flora are displayed. Julian celebrates spring with its annual Wildflower Show and Art Mart which incorporates the blooms of surrounding hills in decorative array.

Continuing on Hwy. 79 down the mountain, you will wander past thriving fruit farms, past gently sloping hills, past historic Mission Santa Ysabel, and into the town of Ramona, another agricultural community where the sun is king.

By taking Hwy. 78 at Ramona, you will note that the San Pasqual Valley swallows up the road and offers a trek through hill-and-mountain, field-and-farm terrain. This is the site of San Diego Wild Animal Park.

On one rise overlooking the rich valley, the park is operated by the San Diego Zoo as a preserve for exotic animals from all over the world. Those creatures share the valley with cows and horses which occupy neighboring farm lands.

San Diego's Fertile Fields

Citrus and avocado trees dominate the landscape as Hwy. 79 leads toward Escondido, a thriving North County trade center and gateway to nearby Palomar Observatory.

An agricultural community, Escondido has a population of more than 40,000 and is a self-sustaining city in its own right. Its climate is warm and congenial year round and it is a center for production of tomatoes, avocados, eggs, poultry, citrus fruits and dairy foods.

A winding county road from Escondido provides a colorful tour to the northern coast section of the county via Lake Hodges and Rancho Santa Fe.

The lake wraps itself through the hills and the road winds high above it to give a panoramic picture of the sometimes rocky environment of the North County.

Rancho Santa Fe with its expansive, ranch-like homes and growth-covered hills is a town of vast charm, not to be minimized by its distance from the main city. Narrow streets complemented by gardens and breezy eucalyptus groves give it a friendly likeness to Northern California's Carmel. Its village allure is not to be equalled anywhere else in San Diego County.

The highway which skirts Rancho Santa Fe runs along the base of slopes which are dotted on one side with private estates and on the other by horse stables and a verdant golf course.

When your adventure trail reaches Interstate Hwy. 8, you should head north to Oceanside which neighbors the United States Marine Corps' Camp Pendleton and Orange County.

Oceanside is the home of Mission San Luis Rey, "King of the Missions," which now serves as a Franciscan seminary. The mission padres conduct daily tours through the national historic landmark.

The Oceanside Boat Harbor provides an anchorage for pleasure craft, a beach center for tourists and a base for sport-fishing operations. In addition, a 1900-ft. peer extends into the sea for the use of fishermen and outdoorsmen.

FOAMY FUN — Surfers find waves to meet their most daring skills along more than 70 miles of San Diego beaches.

Four miles of beaches are also available for bathers and surfers at Oceanside, whose population numbers more than 43,000.

The coast route, Hwy. 101 should be taken south from Oceanside to Carlsbad where more beaches, surfing, water skiing and surf fishing abound. The city of Carlsbad each year greets spring with a two-day festival featuring community shows and exhibits.

New Face For 101

A stretch of coastal communities from Carlsbad through Del Mar was almost abandoned with the opening of the large modern Interstate 5 in the 1960's but residents of those beach towns have revived

Realtor Looks At SD County

By DON BOWEN

I was asked to comment on the real estate industry, general real estate conditions and what will happen within the industry for the balance of 1973. This past week the prime interest rates on homes has risen to 8%. The tight money market will continue to prevail for the next few weeks, as has been the case in recent months. Although money will become more plentiful interest rates will continue to edge up.

In the months and years ahead we will see the prominence of condominium units continue to over shadow the single family dwelling and apartments. At this time there are over 100 condominium projects under construction or being built (including conversions) in the San Diego area. They vary in size from 20 units per project to projects over 200 units. The condominium offers the same tax advantage as home ownership with more amenities and little or no up keep.

STUDENT PARADISE — This imaginative breezeway at University of California at San Diego carries out the open-space feeling of the campus.

The vacancy factor today in San Diego County is close to the over all rate at the end of 1972 which was 11.5%. The coastal communities are enjoying the lowest vacancy factor of less than 5%. Occupancy in San Diego will rise throughout 1973 since there will be fewer rental units built. Building construction in the entire county is down 51% whereas construction in the county excluding San Diego is up.

Many factors have contributed to the slow down of construction including: 1) The Friends of Mammoth Decision, requiring impact studies; 2) Height limitation; 3) Proposition 20; 4) Occupancy level down; 5) Increased construction costs; and one of the most important and continuing problems 6) Government restrictions which include down zoning, height moratoriums, parking ratios and floor area ratios.

The realtor-broker is the professional in the real estate industry. This is reflected in the size of the San Diego Board of Realtors which now numbers 2,500. It is my opinion that next year at this time we will have over 5,000 members in the San Diego Board of Realtors and The National Association of Realtors will number over 500,000 making it the largest trade organization in the world. Doing business with a realtor is doing business with a professional. The realtor motto for 1973 is: "Pride in, respect for, the property of America," let's all use it.

San Diego Colleges Offer Learning & Loveliness

San Diego's four major universities boast a total enrollment of more than 38,000 students but it is difficult to see how they ever pass a course or get a degree!

Each of the quartet of higher education facilities is established in a scenic setting that could cause even the most dedicated student to close his books and enjoy his surroundings.

High On A Hill

The largest of the schools is California State University, formerly known as San Diego State University. Located on a 300-acre bluff overlooking Mission Valley, it takes its architectural inspiration from the mission designs found throughout California.

Though CSU has grown rapidly under a healthy construction schedule, its earliest classrooms and buildings still bear the arched walkways and Spanish mission style. Lawns and gardens provide a verdant setting for the growth pattern as more than 1500 professors relate their knowledge to their 26,000 students.

The university, which was foinded in 1897, today offers undergraduate studies leading to a Bachelor of Arts degree in more than 50 fields. Master of Arts and Master of Science degrees can be sought in more than 42 areas. Doctoral degrees are awarded jointly with University of California.

CSU operates one of the nation's most complete campus broadcasting centers with its radio and television stations. The school has also gained a reputation for its prowess on the athletic field and is known across the country for its football team, the Aztecs.

Sylvan Setting

Newest of the educational foursome in San Diego is the University of California located in La Jolla. Built in a grove of towering eucalyptus near the rocky cliffs of the sea, the campus is something of a forest interspersed with imaginative modern architecture and gardens.

With almost 7000 students matriculating on the 1900-acre site, UCSD enrollment is growing at a rate of about 700 per year. A faculty of more than 2000 is needed to accommodate the carefully planned development of the campus.

The university expects to reach its maximum enrollment at approximately 12,000 students. It has opened three colleges since its first undergraduates began their studies in 1964. Also maintained by the university are the Scripps Institution of Oceanography and the School of Medicine.

Many Campuses

United States International University is based at Camp Elliott in northern San Diego County, a campus set in rolling hills and eucalyptus groves. Winding roads and lawns accent the new buildings which house the students and faculty of one of San Diego's most far-reaching educational enterprises.

USIU maintains campuses in such distant spots as Africa, England and Mexico as well as its local trio of schools. It will relinquish control of its picturesque Point Loma campus this fall as Pasadena College takes over operation of the college by the sea.

The School of Performing Arts located in downtown San Diego is responsible for educating students in the techniques of drama and dance. Productions by young performers help supplement San Diego's already vast entertainment scene.

University of San Diego students also enjoy the splendors of a scenic campus. The school is situated atop a mesa at the west end of busy Mission Valley and commands a view of the sea and bays. Known as Alcala Park, it incorporates two coordinate graduate and undergraduate schools and a law school.

Classes began at the College for Women in 1952 with the assistance of the Society of the Sacred Heart. The College for Men was established by the Diocese of San Diego in 1954.

The first professional school, the School of Law, was also established in 1954 and today offers a three-year full-time program and a four-year part-time program leading to the Juris Doctor degree.

Enrollment at USD is slightly more than 1500 students, a fact which provides the impetus for small, congenial classes and careful academic attention.

In addition to San Diego's four major educational institutions, a program of junior college studies is carried on in campuses throughout the county.

their communities and once again brought interested travelers down the coast route.

Practically destined for ghost-town status with the freeway construction, the people of Leucadia, Encinitas, Cardiff-by-the-Sea, Solana Beach and Del Mar set about re-examining their cities and the results are highly appealing.

Introducing the chain of towns are the multi-toned waves of flowers grown in roadside fields. Planted in rows that create stripes of color along the hills, the flower beds spread like a massive peacock before your eyes.

Encinitas in particular is known across the nation for its flower production, especially at Christmas time when the popular poinsettia is in demand. Other flowers grown in the North County fields are carnations, gladioli and bird-of-paradise.

Antique stores, flower stalls, fruit stands, tiny restaurants and boutique shops line the highway through these communities ... a temptation for even the most frugal visitor.

In addition to their revitalized commerce policies, all these Hwy. 101 towns offer peaceful beaches for surfing, sunning and snoozing.

The Turf Meets The Surf

Del Mar is among the most historic of the northern coastal cities as it is annually the setting for summer thoroughbred racing. It has traditionally attracted some of the world's most glamorous people to its seaside track and to its beaches during the racing season.

WATER WONDERLAND – Palm-lined beaches and grassy parks make Mission Bay a perfect spot for a picnic, for a lazy sunbath, for a day of kit-flying.

SAILING, SAILING — Big winds and little winds offer infinite variety for sailors who populate Mission Bay and the Pacific Ocean on many a sunny San Diego day.

The Southern California Exposition (San Diego County Fair) is also held in Del Mar for 13 days each summer, another event which helps lure people to this rejuvenated community.

and manmade, a visit to Torrey Pines State Park is imperative. Located on a windy bluff just south of Del Mar, the park is involved in a project to preserve one of the last stands of the rare Torrey pines.

San Diegans have maintained a productive campaign to raise money to preserve the area from land developers. Hiking trails, beaches and picnic facilities are available and are carefully and courteously controlled by park rangers.

Your next stop will be La Jolla. Its name a version of the Spanish term for "the jewel," this village is truly a priceless gem on an already noble San Diego scene.

Rocky cliffs give way to long expanses of surf-kissed beaches and then wrap themselves into imaginative coves, upon which palatial homes and quaint cottages stand.

Streets wander down to the oceanfront Scripps Park or up into hills that hide fascinating estates.

The business district is abundant with tiny shops which offer everything from exotic cheeses to the rarest wines, from exclusive clothes to children's attire, from imports to antiques.

Restaurants are plentiful and specialize in delicacies from the far reaches of the globe. Patio dining is a pleasant experience at many establishments and others offer picturesque ocean views.

Once a swampy backwash basin, Mission Bay has been dredged, filled, reinforced and landscaped into one of the nation's most unique water parks.

historic burlesque house to legitimate theatre.

Opened in 1971, the theatre presents popular plays featuring some of acting's finest performers. After a brief hiatus earlier this year, the theatre is once again in operation under new management and with a new slate of productions scheduled.

It is located at 314 F St. in downtown San Diego.

The Center for Performing Arts operated by United States International University also contributes the results of its educational structure to the San Diego entertainment circle. Performances by students of the school make up a regular season of dramatic productions and dance programs.

Such events are held at the center, 350 Cedar St., which is the downtown campus of USIU.

Starlight Summer Musical productions, a popular annual attraction, will once again be staged at California State University in the school's outdoor bowl. The musicals feature talented professional actors complemented by local non-professional performers.

The open air stage will echo with the lively tunes of "Show Boat" July 11 through 21. The uproarious "Once Upon A Mattress" will play Aug. 8 through 18.

The local entertainment spotlight also boasts the San Diego Ballet Company which, since its debut 11 years ago, has won national acclaim. Co-directors of the company which was originally founded by Richard Carter of San Francisco Ballet Company are Dame Sonia Arova and Thor Sutowski.

Looking forward to its upcoming 1973-74 season, the company has announced a summer ballet program in Balboa Park, debut performances of six new ballets and a full scale production of "Swan Lake" at the Civic Theatre in October.

And even the younger set has a hand on local stages. The Civic Youth Orchestra has, during the past 15 years, educated more than 1500 of Southern California's most talented young instrumentalists. The group presents six concerts each season at various local sites.

San Diego Junior Theatre productions also provide a showcase for talented young dramatists. A full schedule of plays completely planned and executed by youth is presented each year at Casa del Prado.

In addition to its larger theatres and performances, San Diego abounds with community drama groups and small stages where residents display their varied talents.

San Diego raises the curtain on a collection of theatre stages throughout the year to provide a continuous entertainment bill to suit the most selective audiences.

Spotlighted as San Diego's pride is the Old Globe Theatre and its companion, the Cassius Carter Centre Stage, both located in Balboa Park.

The Old Globe, which is modeled after its famous old English counterpart, was founded in 1935 and has come to be a foundation for dramatic presentations in the San Diego area.

Each year, it offers a full season of plays under the guidance of Craig Noel, producing director; Peggy Kellner, art director; and a talented staff of theatre performers and assistants.

The five winter plays are presented by non-professional actors and often serve as stepping stones toward higher careers in the acting field.

The summer season is devoted to the annual National Shakespeare Festival, now in its 24th year. The 1973 summer bill includes "Merchant of Venice," "Two Gentlemen of Verona" and "King Lear." It opens June 5.

The festival annually draws capacity crowds to see both professional actors and local talent stage the immortal works of William Shakespeare.

The Cassius Carter Centre Stage, a 245-seat arena-style theatre adjacent to the Old Globe, was opened in 1969 to replace the original Falstaff Tavern.

It too presents a winter season of five plays, usually experimental or rarely-performed modern plays. During the summer, it presents a major professional production to coincide with the Shakespeare Festival. Playing in repertory during the 1973 summer season will be Noel Coward's "Private Lives," opening June 26, and the musical comedy "I Do, I Do," opening June 27. Both feature Mark Dempsey and Pat White.

In downtown San Diego, the Civic Theatre is home for the San Diego Symphony Orchestra and also serves as the stage for year-round performances of concerts, plays and seminars. The symphony, now more than 50 years old, is led by music director Peter Eros and includes over 80 members.

The theatre, which is located at Second and C Sts., is lavishly decorated with crystal chandeliers and copper sculpture. It seats more than 3000 persons and was opened in 1965.

Each year, the Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra, San Diego Opera, major comedy and musical performers, travel films, lecturers and dramatic productions are enjoyed at the Civic Theatre.

Across the plaza is the newly-remodeled San Diego Community Concourse, which was built simultaneously with the Civic Theatre. Recently restyled to accommodate small intimate theatre productions, the concourse serves as a facility for car shows, home shows and various large exhibitions each year.

The concourse is also used for major rock concerts and musical events which require larger seating facilities.

Not to be left out in the major stage category for San Diego entertainment is the Off Broadway Theatre which was converted from a

When it comes to Mobile Home Loans, our rates beat the dealers'. Try Us.

At Glendale Federal, we're in business to help people with money. A mobile home dealer is in business to sell mobile homes.

If you finance your new mobile home through him, he'll normally participate in the finance charges. As a result, your cost goes up to accommodate this additional dealer revenue. And, you end up paying more.

HERE'S AN EXAMPLE OF HOW MUCH YOU SAVE BY FINANCING YOUR MOBILE HOME DIRECTLY THROUGH GLENDALE FEDERAL.

| | GFS at 5% | Dealer at 6% | Dealer at 6½% |
|---|---|---|---|
| NET LOAN | $10,000.00 | $10,000.00 | $10,000.00 |
| TERM IN MONTHS | 120 | 120 | 120 |
| FINANCE CHARGE | $5,000.00 | $5,998.40 | $6,500.00 |
| MONTHLY PAYMENT | $125.00 | $133.32 | $137.50 |
| TOTAL OF PAYMENTS | $15,000.00 | $15,998.40 | $16,500.00 |
| ANNUAL PERCENTAGE RATE | 8.69% | 10.21% | 10.96% |

(This chart is based on a ten-year loan of $10,000.00. It assumes that the dealer, in order to participate in the finance charge, writes your contract at a rate higher than Glendale Federal would charge. Down payments are normally required, but they will vary depending on the particular transaction.)

Do you have to be a GFS saver to get these low interest Mobile Home Loans? NO!

Whether your mobile home is new or used—or whether or not you have an account with us doesn't matter a bit.

Just drop by any one of our more than 30 convenient offices and we'll be glad to arrange all of the details.

and numerous picnic facilities, and bicycle rentals.

Belmont Park, a beachside amusement center, is located at 3000 Mission Blvd. in Mission Bay. Designed for varied family entertainment, the park has recently been remodeled and is open year-round.

It offers a complete array of exciting rides, free parking, picnic grounds with sound stage and dance floor, and an assortment of games and concessions.

And then there is Sea World, 80-acre marine park which overlooks the bay and incorporates its water-orientation into an aquatic playland.

Home of Shamu, the talented two-ton killer whale, Sea World presents six different shows and almost two dozen exhibits within its ever-growing entertainment scheme.

Performing in a new million-gallon tank which is overlooked by a 3000-seat auditorium, the killer whale currently stars in his "Shamu For Mayor" show.

The Sparkletts Water Fantasy makes water the star of the show as more than 450 formations are presented during the computerized production of lights, fountains and music.

Sea World offers you a chance to see a broad picture of our versatile city from atop the American Airlines Flagship Tower which rises 320 ft. above the ground. Or you may travel across Mission Bay from Sea World to the Atlantis Restaurant via aerial gondola cars.

In addition to its rides, Sea World invites you to enjoy exhibits which include California tidepools, an experimental shark tank, dolphin petting pond, turtle pool, baby walrus area and others.

Your probe into the wonders of Mission Bay will be enhanced by the convenient facilities that have grown up along its shores for the pleasure of those who pass through the park.

Mission Bay offers more than half a dozen hotels and motels where guests may enjoy the panoramic water setting. Restaurants abound at each hotel and along the bayshores as well. If it's nightlife you are looking for, this is the place.

Boat sales and anchorages dot the entire park for the convenience of yachtsmen. Sportfishing operations enhance the allure and sightseeing boats tour the lazy waters of the bay.

Point Toward The Point

But pull yourself away from the incomparable attraction of Mission Bay and move on to Point Loma along Sunset Cliffs Blvd. where you will be able to look across the ocean and see the shores of Mission Beach, Pacific Beach, La Jolla and distant coastal communities.

Three miles of waterfront beach and playground make up the western side of Point Loma known as Ocean Beach. Young people wave and call along the beaches, older people enjoy the shops and stops along the main street, Newport Ave., and Ocean Beach is known for its friendly atmosphere.

Out at the very end of Point Loma, the southernmost point of the land finger, Cabrillo National Monument stands like a guardian of the city. The old lighthouse which has seen years of duty in earliest San Diego provides a nostalgic look at times when ocean-going vessels relied on her to guide them to safety.

No longer in use, the lighthouse is now ringed by a paved road and garden-like area

Much To See

maintained as a national park. The visitor information center is watched over by a huge statue of Juan Rodriguez Cabrillo, discoverer of San Diego.

From the monument, San Diego graciously bows to you as though she were swept into a broad curtsy. She spreads before you the treasures of her thriving harbor, the channels of bay that form water roads for ships, the islands which offer recreational diversion.

The view extends along Coronado's shore and beyond. On a clear day, the nearby Coronado Islands in Mexico come into view as do the mountains that serve as a backdrop to San Diego's shoreline.

The Picturesque Path

Your adventure trail now lures you back along the eastern shore of Point Loma for a leisurely look at Shelter Island. This manmade extension of land fronts San Diego Bay and is lined with luxury hotels and fine restaurants. Fishing vessels line up along its edges and a fishing pier offers anglers hours of leisure fun.

But back on Rosecrans St. moving toward Old Town, you will admire the shops and businesses of Point Loma which is home for Naval Training Center and Marine Corps Recruit Depot.

SEASIDE FROLIC — Belmont Park in Mission Beach lures thousands of jovial people to its grounds for thrilling rides, games, picnics and beach parties.

Old San Diego (Old Town) is known as the birthplace of California. It was settled in 1769 and grew through pioneering and world trade.

The community is now a state historic park where rangers offer guided tours and information. Many old buildings have been restored and opened to the public.

But more than a pocket of old San Diego culture, the town has once again come alive through the ingenuity of businessmen and residents. Fine restaurants feature tasty Mexican delicacies and shops along San Diego Ave. are stocked with everything from imports to needlework.

Bazaar del Mundo particularly enhances the new look of Old Town with its courtyard of shops, its glorious garden and its echoing Mexican music.

A round trip of San Diego will be complete by returning to downtown from Old Town, where you will now be saturated with the glories of our county.

You may be intrigued enough to extend your tour to include such side trips as a visit to Anza Borrego State Park or Palomar Observatory or some of our old missions. We hope you'll be inspired to come back for more.

It's just our way of proving that being No. 2 isn't bad at all.

Scale The Skies To Starry Scenes & Sensations

Blast off for outer space and travel through the stars and planets.

It's as easy as your senses and imagination allow it to be. And you don't have to travel to Cape Kennedy for launching either!

The system of space travel is actually a revolutionary new method of film projection recently introduced at San Diego's $4 million Reuben H. Fleet Space Theater and Science Center.

Soar To The Stars

Known as the Space Transit Simulator, the facility includes a $235,000 water-cooled Imax projector using the largest film available (70-mm) and a fisheye lens. The projector is used in conjunction with a $270,000 computer-controlled Star Ball projector, a 76-ft. diameter projection dome and various planet, image and zoom projectors.

"Passengers" on the space flight are positioned in a 350-seat theater surrounded and covered by a hemispheric projection screen shaped like half a giant ball, tilted 25 degrees from the horizon.

The steeply tiered theater and the sensation of being surrounded create a total feeling of travel once the film is begun.

"Voyage to the Outer Planets," produced by Showshere, Inc. simulates a trip to Jupiter with all its feelings of traveling into the depths of outer space and through the vast horizons of millions of stars.

Tropical Treat

In additon to the space journey film, the theater also presents "Garden Isle," a breathtaking flying adventure filmed on the island of Kauai, Hawaii.

Crafty Computer

Exploration of sensory perception is possible with new equipment provided in the adjoining Science Center. Visitors can use their creative talents with the harmonograph or match wits with a computerized teaching machine.

The theater and science center are located on the Plaza de Balboa in Balboa Park. The complex is open daily afternoon and evening showings of the two films.

Hilton's Hawaii on the Mainland

You don't have to take a plane for a Hawaiian vacation. White sand beaches, swaying palms, sailing, swimming, dining in the Surfside Room and dancing in the Mai Tai Lounge—are all available at San Diego's own Hawaiian paradise, the Hilton Inn.

It's the ideal vacation for your family this summer. Special family rates make the Hilton a great place for households of all sizes. There is no charge for children in the parents room and the dining room offers a special children's menu or half price on the adult menu.

Also, this summer, we have something terrific just for the kids — FUN CAMP. The FUN CAMP is much more than a baby sitting service, it's a new concept for the resort industry. It's good, clean, wholesome fun — closely supervised by qualified educators and recreational specialists. Youngsters may participate in organized games, crafts, sporting activities, arts, music, outside tours and ALWAYS with a supervisor.

For kids and Mom and Dad a Fun Desk with organized activities and events is located in the lobby. Come join us this summer and visit paradise on the mainland.

BARGAINS AND BRAVO — A jaunt to Tijuana across the Mexican bargains yields unique entertainment from bullfights to jai alai as well as shopping bargains. The city's free port status creates an atmosphere of international allure as imports from around the world may be purchased at considerably lower prices than in the United States.

Our Neighbor Bids Welcome

San Diegans take it for granted but visitors find Tijuana a colorful introduction to a foreign country, a city that is back-to-back with the United States and still retains its romantic Latin charm.

Step across the border and step into another world. There they speak a different language although almost everyone is bilingual. They prepare food with more spices although most restaurants offer selections adapted to a more delicate American palate.

They sing songs that are distinctively Mexican but American tunes also pour from numerous nightclub jukeboxes. They have entertainment that is definitely not American ... bullfights, jai alai ... but there is also dog racing and soon there will be horse racing again.

Shoppers Delight

In Tijuana, visitors can take advantage of duty-free shopping and purchase quality imports from around the world at moderate prices. Men's clothing from Britain and Italy are excellent buys. Furniture from the Orient, English woolens, French perfumes ... these present a truly international selection for the shopper.

A visit to the glass factory provides an opportunity to watch hand blown glass being made. Directions may be obtained from the visitor information booth on Avenida de la Revolucion, the main street. Entertainment schedules and shopping assistance is also available at the stand.

Upon leaving Mexico, visitors should report all purchases to the U.S. Customs representative. Each person crossing the border is allowed $100 in tax-free articles. Non-residents of California may also bring back one quart of liquor.

Unique Diversion

Avenida de la Revolucion is lined with nightclubs and restaurants as well as shops and the visitor may partake of local entertainment. Dancing, dining and shows are abundant pastimes for the visitor.

The Fronton Palacio on Revolucion is the site of jai alai action Thursday through Sunday. The swift Basque game is comparable to the sport of handball and lures some of the world's most talented players.

Tijuana is the only city on the West Coast where jai alai is played and adds a double attraction with pari-mutuel betting.

Entertainment during the spring and summer months is enhanced by the bullfights which are held at El Toreo de Tijuana, the downtown bullring, in the early season and at Plaza Monumental, the ring by the sea, in the later season.

Track Time

Greyhound racing is scheduled weekend evenings at Caliente Race Track. The historic horse race course and grandstand were destroyed by fire several years ago but dog racing is still conducted there.

It is recommended that Tijuana visitors not drink tap water. Most restaurants serve bottled water which is safe to drink and Mexico boasts many flavorful beers ... and its popular tequila.

Tourists may park their cars on the American side of the border, walk across the line and take taxis to the downtown area. Or they may wish to purchase an inexpensive Mexican auto insurance policy for driving into the city.

Taxi service is also good to and from the border.

Art Appreciates Our City's Riches

By TEDDY KEETON

Hurrah for a brand new exhibit ... "The City is for People." Starting July 14 through September 23 new life will be brought into greater San Diego by introduction of sculpture to soften concrete building masses and to provide a visual interlude. The purpose of this large undertaking is to enrich the urban existence by positive measures through cooperation with the City administration, City Center leaders and educational and cultural centers.

Contributing to the new visual perspective will be the sculptures of Kappa (Civic Plaza), Kipp (Mission Bay Park), Todd and Voulkous (La Jolla Museum of Contemporary Art), Tatro (Grossmont College) and Hord (Scripps Institute of Oceanographic).

Correlated exhibitions in the Fine Arts Gallery (Balboa Park) will look at the city, in good examples of past and present architecture. The upstairs gallery will present plans of a visionary city suggesting a series of planning solutions to a variety of urban ills (which may or may not apply to San Diego). Another facet is the multi-media presentation of public paintings and sculptures as seen in other major cities throughout the United States.

Even in a city as beautiful as San Diego, city walls usually are cold, stark barriers to the landscape ... offering little eye appeal, and their only reason for existence is functional. The Chicanos are changing this here by painting two colossal wall murals in Chicano Park on Logan street. This work by a group of artists from the Chicano community is regarded now as one of the major art endeavors in the city.

Another wall to be painted is the Crabtree building on Third, between "A" and "B" streets. Artists are currently submitting plans and designs and the final award decision is slated for around July 15th.

Contributing to San Diego's cultural wealth is this newly executed mural painted by local Chicano artists in Chicano Park (Logan street).

Local artists and art groups will be supported in "The City is for People". One favorite of visitors has always been Spanish Village Art Center, (Balboa Park) where one may watch talented and versatile artists at work producing paintings, watercolors, sculpture, ceramics, weaving and photographs. For gem enthusiasts the San Diego Gem Society is located in the Village, plus 41 studios, and approximately 100 artists displaying pieces in various media.

Rounding out the city wide project will be collections offered by dealer galleries such as the newly formed Triad gallery on India Stgeet, where artists Rosenburg, Yaruss, Turley, and others will be exhibiting.

A catalogue on Architecture and an Art Guide will cover the permanent character of San Diego, its architecture, sculpture, garden spots and wall decorations. A second publication will be an over-all catalogue consisting of photographs and bibliography and both will be available at the Fine Arts Gallery.

CUBI XV (steel) by the late David Smith is one of six pieces on exhibit in the sculpture garden at the Fine Arts Gallery.

Ecumenical Conference Guides County Churches

As San Diego County grows, so grows its roster of churches.

With more than 850 churches in its 4,314 square miles, the county's religious institutions are guided by the San Diego County Ecumenical Conference with 125 member churches and private individuals who support the group's programs.

According to the conference, which is located at 1875 Second Ave., the largest congregation in the county is the First United Presbyterian Church of San Diego. The group represented by the most congregations in the county is the Methodist Church with 42 member organizations.

The conference is headed by the Rev. Melvin H. Harter as executive director. It gives guidance and impetus to the religious life of the community through its various programs.

Established in 1970 as a successor to the San Diego County Council of Churches, the conference keeps track of all the various religious activities throughout the county.

It works as a coordinator for the churches, offers guidance in community projects and keeps members up-to-date on the events of local churches.

The conference operates a Committee on Church Planning where representatives of various denominations participate in the planning of the future of the church in San Diego County. Members of the committee meet and examine the needs of growing San Diego communities and decide which churches might best serve the needs of each area.

The staff of the conference office is glad to offer information on local religious activities. The office may be reached by calling 232-6385.

1883 to the present Space Age.

The newest addition to Balboa Park also encompasses space flight and the scientific advancements of man. The Reuben H. Fleet Space Theater and Science Center, located on the south side of the new Plaza de Balboa, features the largest dome in the nation and is used to screen 10,000 stars. Viewing the films projected on the dome is an experience that completely involves the audience since the walls of the bubble meet the floor and surround the seating area.

FLY TO THE STARS — Newest star in Balboa Park is the Reuben H. Fleet Space Theater and Science Center where projectors screen massive film onto a dome-like screen. The result is a sensation of traveling into outer space.

Fossils, Flowers & Friends

The nearby Natural History Museum documents the world's living beings and offers displays of animals of every level of existence. Fossils and skeletons, exhibits and experiments, films and lectures . . . all are part of the ongoing program of the museum.

If you long to surround yourself with nature (as if the park itself wasn't a city-dweller's dream-come-true!), head for the Botanical Gardens where more than 800 varieties of plants thrive, where green is accented with rich flower hues and where no detail is spared in the growth of lush greenery.

The House of Pacific Relations offers an international welcome with its 15 cottages representing different countries and nationalities. Lawn programs with dancing and entertainment are scheduled each Sunday in the surrounding gardens.

The Photographic Arts Building is also open on Sunday afternoons so that visitors can enjoy exhibits and tour the building. Flower shows are held throughout the year in the park's Conference Building and the Puppet Theatre is used for children's productions and classes.

If music is your passion, don't miss the Sunday afternoon programs at the Spreckels Organ Pavilion.

Classic Construction

With all that Balboa Park offers in the way of entertainment and education, its architecture alone could easily claim the admiration of even the most disinterested observer. The ornate molding and statuary of the Fine Arts Gallery, the graceful Spanish arched walkways, the colorful tile dome and picturesque California tower...all present an opportunity to study classic designs.

The newly built Casa del Prado reflects San Diegans' appreciation of their park; it is decorated with copies of the original ornate designs of the former Food and Beverage Building. The facility is used for meetings for various groups and for productions by San Diego Junior Theatre.

From architecture to zinnias, from art to zoology, Balboa Park appeals to all the senses, internal and external. It offers everyone a chance to

Let Your Senses Run Wild In Beautiful

Let all your senses come alive with an adventure through the joyous jungle of Balboa Park.

Let your eyes scan vast acres of carefully manicured lawns, kaleidoscopes of rainbow-colored blooms and forests of time-honored trees.

Give your nose an opportunity to catch the scent of eucalyptus which sweeps along the gardens and groves. Take time to sniff through the rows and patches of richly spiced flowers. Let the new-mown grass mingle with the freshness of ever-present growth and greenery.

Listen to the birds that find the park a paradise for people-watching, nest-building and daring aerial stunts. Hear the laughter of children frolicking on a verdant slope or exploring the corridors of ornate park buildings. Or tune in to the sounds that echo from nearby San Diego Zoo.

The Park Takes A Bow

Let your appreciation of the arts run rampant. Give it a chance to see award-winning dramatic productions at the Old Globe Theatre and its sister, the Cassius Carter Centre Stage.

Allow it to comb the corridors and halls of the Fine Arts Gallery where more than 30 exhibits are presented each year and where a permanent display of Old Masters is hung. Let your appreciation extend to the Timken Art Gallery, the home of the Putnam Foundation Art Collection of Old Masters and other representative European works.

If your senses tell you to continue your art explorations, take in the San Diego Art Institute in the House of Charm where local artists regularly show the products of their skill.

Or tour Spanish Village and watch artisans at work. Dozens of creative craftsmen display their wares in the collection of village studios.

If archaeology and anthropology catch your fancy, don't miss a trip to the Museum of Man where exhibits of primitive artifacts and relics of North American Indian life are shown.

Champs To Choo Choos

If your taste runs to sports history, the Hall of Champions offers a comprehensive look at San Diego's historic contributions in various athletic fields.

One of the largest scale model railroad operations in the country is housed next door. Open house is held at the Model Railroad each Sunday and visitors may watch the intricate workings of the rail empire in miniature.

Or indulge your interest in air flight at the Aerospace Museum where San Diego's role in the development of aviation is traced. Exhibits of planes and flying equipment span the years from

Crazy Animal Antics

MONKEY BUSINESS — You'll go ape at the San Diego Zoo where creatures from the far reaches of the world are on display daily. Take a guided bus tour, ride the aerial Skyfari or stroll through the zoo and meet the animals.

San Diego Zoo operates three facilities within the county: one for the big kids, one for the little kids and one for the wild kids.

For those who prefer the big time, San Diego Zoo itself is the world's largest collection of wild animals. Located on 100 acres of breathtaking Balboa Park, the zoo is home for more than 5500 specimens of more than 1600 species.

From an assortment of comic monkeys that thrive on audience attention to roly - poly bears that graciously cavort for spectators; from snakes and reptiles that slither through their enclosure with classic grace to birds that modestly display their delicate coloring; from elephants of many sizes to towering beautiful giraffes...San Diego Zoo represents the world's animal inhabitants in all their infinite variety.

Pupils & Pleasure

At over 50 years of age, the zoo annually records an attendance figure of more than 3 million. In addition to those who visit the site for pure pleasure, thousands of students are admitted each year to use the zoo as a living laboratory for their studies.

For visitors who prefer not to tour the zoo on foot, a 40-minute, three-mile guided bus tour is offered regularly each day. The buses are operated by drivers whose zoo knowledge is keen and humor abundant.

The Skyfari aerial tramway offers a look at the zoo from a lofty height as it transports guests from a site near the main entrance to Hoof and Horn Mesa.

Toddlers Treat

If animal-watching on a smaller level is required for the younger members of the family, the Children's Zoo is home for an assortment of wild animals in miniature.

Located within the main zoo but accessible from an outside entrance, the youngsters' animal treat is specially designed to stimulate the imagination of its wee guests.

A large purple Easter Egg is set up to display a collection of wide-eyed owls. Cats and dogs playfully perform for young spectators. A 400-gallon Turtletorium offers a study of many shelled creatures.

One of the special features of the Children's Zoo is the Direct Contact Paddock where smallfry may come face-to-face with little llamas, gallant Galapagos turtles and greedy goats.

A Seal Pool is a showcase for the antics of a team of exhibitionist seals. Ape Island also sets the stage for continuous monkey performances. A tropical fish bowl provides a chance to study the quiet lifestyle of assorted sealife.

The facility was constructed in 1957 especially for little people and is a constantly changing display of young wildlife.

Wild Wonders

The wildest of San Diego Zoo's animal shows is San Diego Wild Animal Park at San Pasqual, where creatures from zebra to rhinoceros are allowed to roam freely through a scenic North County valley.

Enclosed only by wide boundaries, the animals are housed in several sections including East Africa, North Africa, Southern Africa and Asian Plains. An electric train is operated as the Wgasa Bush Line to carry park visitors around the large open area for a better look at the wildlife.

Don't Miss A Minute Of The Fun

"We should be able to send out the strongest team ever to wear the orange, white and blue of the Gulls next season," said Gull executive Jay Leishman. "The entire Western Hockey League will be stronger, but we have had conversations with our major league affiliates that indicate we'll have one of the strongest teams in the league."

On a complete shift of personal temperature, dampening the pulse and quieting the mind, visitors to San Diego enjoy some of the greatest fishing, both deep sea and fresh water, in the world.

Lakes and stocked reservoirs give light tackle anglers action the year around, but the major attraction is always the deep sea and green water over-the-bow fishing.

The deep season kicks off each year with the Junior Chamber of Commerce-sponsored Yellowtail Derby, wherein fishermen compete for prizes with their fishing skill and angling luck.

The prizes, donated by area businessmen, range from fishing tackle to brand new automobiles and just about everything in between.

The derby runs about eleven weeks each year but is by no means the extent of the San Diego fishing season. Half day trips to the nearby kelp beds of La Jolla and Point Loma, two-day trips to the Coronado Islands and five-day to three-month range trips to the marlin fishing grounds at the tip of Baja California are planned.

Then when things get dull, even with all this, there is always the California State University Aztecs in national collegiate football action against nationally ranked teams like Florida State, Iowa State and University of Houston.

The Aztec crew hosted Navy and Washington on Mission Bay this spring and has plans for a repeat regatta next year.

And if you still have time hanging heavy on your hands, remember a trio of San Diegans recently bought the America's Cup defender Intrepid, had it hauled to San Diego for refitting and plan crew training on the ocean racing course off Pacific Beach in preparation for next year's America's Cup challenge round.

As a last reminder, San Diego is the place where Ken Norton, a hometown pugilist, at least temporarily silenced well-known if controversial Cassius Clay (Muhammed Ali) when he broke his jaw and shut his mouth.

ROW, ROW, ROW YOUR BOAT—Oarsmen of all ages participated in the events of this spring's regatta on Mission Bay hosted by California State University. Navy met Washington for bayside competition. San Diegans are fortunate to have bodies of water which can be adapted to many kinds of sports.

Sports Scene Alive With Action And Thrills

Basketball and hockey follow the racing season with a brand of excitement reserved for forces of speed and contact.

The big question of the sports scene this spring is not who, but where, Conquistador owner Dr. Leonard Bloom will flood his troops this year.

The development of Stew Johnson, Chuck Williams and Red Robbins under the tutorage of former NBA-playing-great - turned - ABA - coach, K.C. Jones, gives the Q's a core of proven starters.

The addition of Dwight Lamar, a two-year national collegiate scoring leader, gives promise of contention for national honors in their second season.

But Peterson Gym is too small and Peter Graham wants a 10-year guarantee for use for his Arena, a condition which Bloom refuses to consider.

The Q's will play next year, but where, nobody knows.

The San Diego Gulls, newly dressed in a player development deal with both the Boston Bruins and the Philadelphia Flyers of the National Hockey League, expect the strongest contingent of hopefuls ever in their Trail, British Columbia, training camp next fall.

As the train moves slowly around the gentle curves of the hills, passengers can watch the living habits of giraffes, elephants, numerous types of antelope, Cape Buffalo, lions and birds.

The boarding station for the monorail train is located in Nairobi Village where more animals are housed. Designed like an authentic African community, the area provides enclosures for animals from gorillas to tortoises.

Safari Stars

The village elephant wash is the spot for daily cleaning rituals as the huge beasts go through their ablutions. The Congo River Fishing Village is a model of traditional river fishing areas in Africa.

Green iguanas and komodo dragons have their special home at the village as do such birds as the pelican, lesser and greater flamingo and red-billed hornbill.

The entrance to the village provides an appropriate introduction to the wild, unbound philosophy of life encouraged for the animals by park officials. A giant aviary is filled with free-flying birds who go about their living patterns as visitors pass through their habitat.

For the young, for the young-at-heart, for the independent, San Diego Zoo offers an attraction for every taste. The main zoo is open daily from 9 a.m. Admission is $1.50 for adults; children under 16 are admitted free. Servicemen in uniform are admitted free.

The Children's Zoo is open at 9:30 a.m. daily. Youngsters 2 through 15 are charged 15 cents; those 16 and over are 25 cents.

They are located off Park Blvd. in Balboa Park.

San Diego Wild Animal Park may be reached by taking Interstate Highway 395 to San Pasqual Rd. Admission to the park is $1.25 for adults, free to those under 16. Servicemen in uniform are also admitted free of charge. The monorail fee is $1.50 for adults, $1 for ages 12 to 16 and 50 cents for ages 2 to 11.

TRUNK AND TAIL — The wildest of the wild are the fare at San Diego Wild Animal Park at San Pasqual. The Wgasa Bush Line monorail train glides through the valley for passengers to view elephants, zebra, antelope, lion, and other beasts from the jungles and plains of the world.

Past Influences Present At California's First Town

Take the richness of the past. Add the sophistication of the present. Enhance it with the promise of the future. And that's Old Town, the site of early San Diego and the birthplace of California.

They call it "old" and it is ... 204 to be exact. But it isn't old in the minds of the people who work and live there or to those who visit; it is a new experience in reliving the past and enriching the future.

First Town

Old San Diego, as it is sometimes called, was established in 1769 as a complex of crude adobe buildings adjacent to California's first mission.

Located on a bluff overlooking the harbor, the settlement was not abandoned when the mission was moved in the late 1700's to a site farther up the valley. Spanish soldiers, their families and their Indian servants continued to live on the hill and were gradually infiltrated by trappers, traders, ranchers and sailors from ships which began putting into port in the 1800's.

HISTORIC HOME — The Casa de Estudillo in Old Town is centered with a lovely garden courtyard around which the living quarters of this early San Diego family were built. The site is open to the public.

Settling Down

In the 1820's, Mexico gained control of California and granted large portions of mission land to settlers who eventually became wealthy ranchers. Lovely homes began to spring up around the plaza at the base of Presidio Hill, as the fort and old mission site were called.

Today many of the homes still stand and have been restored for public viewing. Among the historic sites along San Diego Ave., the main street, is the adobe-walled hacienda, Casa de Estudillo. Once a fashionable early San Diego home, it is built around a lovely garden so that each room opens into a courtyard.

The Whaley House was the first brick house built in San Diego. Now used as a museum displaying historical items, the home looks out onto San Diego Ave. and is open Wednesday through Sunday.

By 1850, the United States had annexed California as a state and Old Town San Diego was forever to carry the dual allure of its Spanish and American influence.

Today, the community reflects its history in the nature of its museums, shops and restaurants. Squibob Square, named for George Derby who wrote under the pen name of Squibob, is a pocket of Americana along San Diego Ave.

Bazaar del Mundo, on the other hand, is basically Spanish with touches from the distant corners of the world, a mirror of the international influences upon all the days of Old Town. Built originally as a motel, the facility has been converted into one great shopping spree ... a garden of goodies from art and food to needlework and plants. It features two Mexican restaurants, lush garden courtyard, lively music and a variety of colorful shops.

ternational ProAm, pitting stars of stage, screen and television with businessmen around the world and regular touring pros like Jack Nicklaus, Lee Trevino, Bruce Crampton and homegrown stars Billy Casper and Gene Littler.

The best of the pros come back to San Diego each April to test the difficult, almost "open" quality of the lush greens and narrow fairways of beautiful La Costa Country Club in the MONY Tournament of Champions. Only winners of regular PGA events of the past year and the winner of the British Open are eligible to play in this most prestigious golf tournament.

Additional golfing excitement comes to San Diego this year and next with the assignment of two national amateur tourneys.

Picturesque Singing Hills Country Club will host the 25th annual U.S. Junior Amateur Championships this summer on its Willow Glen course. The best junior golfers from all 50 states will open action on the 6,864 yard course beginning Aug. 1 and running through five days of 36-hole match play.

OUT AT HOME . . . on a heads up play at the plate by San Diego Padres' catcher Fred Kendall. Pittsburgh Pirate batting star Bob Robertson was a step late on the play, typical of the excitement seen at San Diego Stadium where the Padres host their National League rivals. Kendall, one of the surprises of the Padres this season, is hitting a "cool" .300 and has all the defensive tools the game requires.

Carlton Oaks Country Club will host the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) Golf Championships in June 1974 in a first time move of that tournament to San Diego.

Racing returns to the Southland with colorful opening ceremonies and the Palomar Handicap for $20,000 added over the seven and one half furlong turf course at Del Mar.

Four days later the track where the surf meets the turf makes history with its first Sunday racing card, highlighted by the San Diego Handicap, over a route of a mile and a sixteenth.

Sunday racing has acted as a magic wand to Southern California horse fans, sending attendance and wagering marks to new records each outing.

Del Mar will be open seven Sundays during its 42 day meeting, sending runners gateward in no less than 24 stake races, topped by the $100,000 Del Mar Invitational 'Cap over a mile and three-eighths on the turf for three-year-olds. The equally rewarding $100,000-added Del Mar Futurity for two-year-olds will close the season with a seven and one half furlong dash on Sept. 12.

The anguish of being just "that" far away can be seen in the reflections of principals in "hot" action on ice at San Diego Sports Arena where the Gulls host Western Hockey League opponents. # Got The Sports Bug?

By JOHN E. WIRGES
Image Sports Editor

There's always something doing in San Diego.

Like football, for instance.

The planning period is almost over and soon the giants of professional football will be reporting to pre-season camps to prepare for the hardships and hard knocks of the fall exercises known as "murder on Sunday afternoons."

The San Diego Chargers are leaders in the planning, not because they have done so well, but rather, because they have so far to go.

The trades and drafts of the last two seasons have provided a certain soundness in the master marking of XXX's and 000's on head coach Harland Svare's drawing board. He expects this year's effort to produce a winner and a Super Bowl contender. All he has to do now, is sign the players, open camp and transfer the XXX's and 000's from the drawing board to the gridiron.

Some things are easier to do than others. Quarterbacks John Unitas and Wayne Clark are in a "bargaining mood" and seem to be dealing from a position of strength. They are the club's only experienced quarterbacks.

John Hadl, you will remember, moved on to the Los Angeles Rams over the winter in exchange for defensive end Coy Bacon (6-4, 270) and running back Bobby Thomas (5-10, 210).

Bacon will give tremendous depth to the defensive line of David "Deacon" Jones, Lionel Aldridge, Ron East and Dave Costa.

Svare, who claims football success comes only after establishing an "awesome" defensive line, is gambling that the addition of Bacon is worth the loss of Hadl.

In reality, and with the exception of the unsettled quarterback picture, the Chargers are rich and overflowing with talent in all departments.

During the winter the Chargers have acquired the services of premier kickoff and punt return men, Travis Williams and Ron Smith. They also drafted Heisman Trophy winner Johnny Rodgers, who used sprinter's speed on returns as well as flanker patterns. Rodgers gives the already solid receiving corps of Jerry LeLias, Gary Garrison and Dave Williams enough depth to mark it one of the best in the conference.

The Chargers' other Heisman Trophy winner, Mike Garrett, heads as fine a running back contingent as is likely to see action in 10 seasons. Garrett, a two time 1,000-yard gainer, will be joined by Bobby Thomas, Duane Thomas and Cid Edwards.

Thomas (Duane) sat last year out with personal problems but is reported to be fit and fiddle once again, working hard on conditioning and ready to play.

Thomas (Bobby) saw part time duty with the Rams but had two 100-yard games and finished 433 yards on 77 attempts for a fine 5.6 yards per try.

Svare has all the horses he needs, notwithstanding some of the fine spirited types who still need a bit of special handling.

But he's got his work cut out for him with a schedule that opens at Washington, hosts Buffalo and Cincinnati, then sends his troops into foreign battles with Pittsburgh and Oakland.

Atlanta and Kansas City play in San Diego around a Charger visit to Cleveland.

After the Chiefs' contest, the Chargers visit Denver and then host New Orleans and Oakland. They close out the regular schedule at New England, home against the Broncos and visiting Kansas City.

Svare's troops finished 4-9-1 last year, solidly last in the American Conference Western Division.

Excitement reigns anew among Charger supporters with new troops, new speed, new depth and nowhere to go but up. And up is the direction of Charger ticket sales, racing two full months ahead of last year. You gotta have faith.

Faith, by the way, is what lowered the average age and upped the abilities of the San Diego Padres.

Padre manager Don Zimmer, fighting for progress in the toughest division of the toughest league in baseball, the National League West, turned to youth and promise this season and seems to be getting value well received.

The Padres have "discovered" a full bloom major league catcher right on their own roster in the person of .300 hitting Fred Kendall.

John Grubb, another .300 hitting youngster, made the jump from "AA" ball in the Texas League to centerfield with the Padres.

Dave Hilton, another [illegible] League jumper, earned the nickname "Hoover" from the way he cleans up everything hit down third base way.

Enzo Hernandez, maturing on schedule, has become one of the best fielding short stops in the league and seems to have the ability to steal bases at will. He's adept enough to have the green light all the time, a tribute rightfully reserved for only the best runners in the game.

Despite some arm troubles on the pitching staff, the Padres are playing .500 at home and expect warm weather to heal the pitching hurts by early summer to let them make a charge at the Western Division leaders.

Baseball people say the Padres rise is only a matter of time and a lot shorter span than most critics think possible.

It's all part of the San Diego Major League scene, a view that takes in NFL football, National League baseball, PGA golf, the Sport of Kings at beautiful Del Mar and ABA basketball.

The giants of professional golf tour their way through some of San Diego's 70-plus golf courses each year.

The Andy Williams-San Diego Open is a mixture of "fun" and fierce competition with an in-

RUNNING AND BLOCKING ... is the key to football success and the San Diego Chargers have some of the finest of each. Mike Garrett, (20) Heisman trophy winner from USC, gained more than 1,000 years last year behind the blocking of the likes of Walter Francies Sweeney (78), a perennial All-Pro guard. The Chargers report to camp in July and open NFL pre-season action in August. Improvements in defense, and special team coverage make the Chargers a more powerful unit than in any recent campaign. Garrett and Sweeney are ready to lead the way.

GOLDEN SWING . . . and worth $1 million. Lee Trevino, the "SuperMex" of golf, reached the $1 million mark in winnings this year to join Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus and San Diegan Billy Casper in the big money winner's circle. Trevino played San Diego courses twice this season, the Andy Williams San Diego Open at Torrey Pines in February and the MONY Tournament of Champions at La Costa in April. Then returned to play in a special "Save-A-Heart" charity exhibition with Billy Casper at San Diego Country

SONY. NO BALONEY.

Only Sony's Trinitron system has one gun with one big lens for a better-focused, sharper picture. And that's a fact.

What you see here, magnified inside the circle, is the single gun of a Trinitron picture tube. One gun needs only one lens, so there's room for a big one. Everyone else—even the new "in-line" tubes—must fit in three lenses, so they have to be smaller. Why is a big lens such a good thing? A big lens has a correspondingly big central portion. And the center is the most distortion-free part. So you get a better-focused, sharper picture from Sony. No baloney.

You also get a brighter picture. That's because of something else only Trinitron has—an Aperture Grille. It lets the electron beams hit the screen in unbroken stripes—not in isolated dots, or ovals. That way more electrons get to the screen. And you get a brighter picture. From Sony. No baloney. How about reliability? Sony uses all-solid-state for all their models. Not just their more expensive ones. Come in and check out the Trinitron picture yourself. Then you'll know we're not giving you any baloney.
